

2021 World Internet of Things Convention Invitation Letter

Dear sir/madam,

The Internet of Things (IoT), an ecological network combining digitization, informatization and intelligence, is a new economic carrier of globalization in which digital economy, real economy and new generation information technology deeply integrate with each other. In order to promote the global innovative development of society and economy, create a new IoT international economic market, formulate the IoT international convention, while supporting and promoting the IoT construction and the sustainable development of industrial economy in all countries around the world, the 2021 WIOTC, the annual IoT extravaganza, will be held on November 30 at the China National Convention Center in Beijing.

Themed “Creating the New Pattern of IoT Era, Building the New Economy of IoT World”, the Convention will be organized with various online and offline events ranging from the World IoT Summit, Round Table, the release of the World IoT Top 500 Ranking List (WIOTRL), IoT Trade Exhibition to many special forums focusing on IoT Industry, agriculture, energy, car networking, health care, etc. During the conference, special forums and exhibitions set up by different national and local governments and enterprises will be brought to the fore. Thousands of special representatives, including those from UN agencies, international organizations, government agencies and social groups, and ambassadors, experts and scholars and enterprises listed on WIOTRL, will be present at the offline conference. It is estimated that thousands of mainstream media around the world will report and repost our events.

Based on the leading, cutting-edge and international influence of previous conferences, we hereby send the special letter to invite you to attend the conference. We welcome you to support the economic development of the IoT industry. We feel really honored if you could take the time to attend the event.

We are looking forward to your reply soon.
